Neil Abramson is a partner in Torkin Manes' Litigation & Dispute Resolution Group and chair of the firm's Health Professionals Group. He brings more than 30 years' experience to his robust law practice, which encompasses various civil litigation matters ranging from complex commercial disputes to all manner of torts, such as defamation, negligence and employment law. A significant portion of Neil's practice is devoted to the defence of health professionals, where he regularly defends clients in hearings before the Discipline Committees of the various Colleges regulating health professionals in Ontario and appears on appeal before all levels of court. He has also acted for many medical staff associations and physicians in numerous hospital privilege disputes.

Well-known and respected throughout the profession, Neil is one of only a handful of lawyers in Ontario who is certified by the Law Society of Ontario as a Specialist in both Health Law and Civil Litigation. He is a sought-after presenter and author on a broad range of topics related to healthcare law and litigation and is repeatedly recognized by his peers—nationally and internationally—as a leader in the areas of Healthcare Law and Professional Liability in some of the most respected directories in the legal profession.
